Capital: 'See here, my man, one of us must either go back or else lie down and let the other walk over him. Now which of us shall it be?' (And that is now the question.)